Dear Mrs. Ambariantz:

Regarding your invoice #3634 we wish to draw your attention to the following.

It was our understanding that the ad in the Anniversary issue of ARARAT would cost us about $185. Later we learned that you did not have sufficient space and that you would place it in the next issue, if we agreed. Although we lost publicity time and impact we still want the ad.

We are surprised that, despite, losing the benefit of the special issue, you are now increased the cost to $250., which you indicate as a discounted price.

Before we could effect payment of your invoice, we would appreciate if you could send us an adjusted statement based on our initial understanding.

Very truly yours,

Mary Derderian
