To Whom It May Concern,

Is there any possibility of purchasing two Divine Liturgy books? The sharagans of Gomidas and Egmalian; the large books that are used by the organists in our churches.

A good friend of mine had the books, but, unfortunately, recently they were stolen. She was an organist; therefore words can't describe how devastating it was for her.

Many years ago she was the choir director and organist at Holy Cross Armenian Church in Los Angeles, California; the only Armenian Church we had at that time.

She left Holy Cross when St. James Armenian Church was founded in Los Angeles in 1941. For several years she was our organist at St. James; she never accepted payment of any kind for her services.

and address:

Alice Sayegh (nee Bakurjian)

She has a baby grand piano and a lovely organ, but she is unhappy; for she can't play the sharagans without the music.

Alice prefers the big books that the organists use, because that is what she had.

We look forward to hearing from you, and, will, greatly appreciate your assistance.

Sincerely Yours,

Dear Mrs. Kellerian:

Thank you for your letter dated January 12, 1987.

At the present time, the large Gomidas and Egmalian
Divine Liturgy books are out of print.

We will be reprinting these books and they should be available by June 1987.

Your request has been given to our Bookstore Manager who will inform you when the books are available.

Yours sincerely,

Syraun Palvetzian
Director
