Mr. Khechoyan called this morning to ask for the letter confirming the election of their new parish council.

He said that they have done everything and what else did we want. When I told him that the covering letter was missing giving details of the names of the newly elected people and the number of votes received, he replied why don't you read the minutes.

Also I mentioned that parish dues were not paid completely in 1989, to which he replied that they have paid every penny.
