

SERPAZAN HAYR:

Ed Briggs from the Richmond Times called and wanted an interview with you.

He asked me if you could come a bit earlier to Richmond so that he could set up an interview but I told him that was not possible as the flight you were taking was the best I could do.

However, he went on to say that he would do a telephone interview with you, whenever it is convenient for you. I told him that you were very busy this week but I will have to ask you.

He will call on Wednesday to set up an appointment on the phone for Thursday, if convenient.

I asked him whether he could give me the questions he will be asking. He said that there are two:

1. What do you think about ethnic religions at the present time (he said that sometime ago you told him that Armenians were leaving the faith, were joining other churches and intermarrying) - is the situation the same, better or worse, etc.
2. What is the state of the World and National Council of Churches after the changes. What do you think,
