

Friday Night Open House Has Successful Halloween Party

NEW YORK, N.Y. - Spooks and goblins ran through the halls of the Haik and Alice Kavookjian Auditorium, romping and hooting and having a grand time on Halloween. Friday Night Open House expanded its activities on October 31, to include the little folk and hosted a grand party for them to have fun and dress up in their many lovely costumes. The small fry were treated to games and prizes and had a Happy Halloween while their parents and guests enjoyed the facilities of the Friday Night Open House, including the excellent dinner served that evening.

The adults enjoyed their own games including tavloo and cards, bingo and scrabble, and many just socialized and chatted. It was a fun night for all and hopefully next year again the little hobgoblins will be back for another evening of fun and prizes and games.

Friday Night Open House which is run by the Diocese every Friday night and which serves an excellent dinner to all, is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Agnes Kalfaian, who oversees the kitchen and the activities. It has become quite a popular evening and starting on Friday, November 14, there will be tavloo tournaments sponsored by the Constantinople Armenian Relief Society.

Young hobgoblins pose with their mothers.

Some of the little ones take a rest on the stage.

Photos By MADO HAIRABEDIAN

Mrs. Agnes Kalfaian gives the children Halloween surprises.

Party guests show of their costumes and their presents.

Friday Night Open House Has Successful Halloween Party

NEW YORK, N.Y. - Spooks and goblins ran through the halls of the Haik and Alice Kavookjian Auditorium, romping and hooting and having a grand time on Halloween. Friday Night Open House expanded its activities on October 31, to include the little folk and hosted a grand party for them to have fun and dress up in their many lovely costumes. The small fry were treated to games and prizes and had a Happy Halloween while their parents and guests enjoyed the facilities of the Friday Night Open House, including the excellent dinner served that evening.

The adults enjoyed their own games including tavloo and cards, bingo and scrabble, and many just socialized and chatted. It was a fun night for all and hopefully next year again the little hobgoblins will be back for another evening of fun and prizes and games.

Friday Night Open House which is run by the Diocese every Friday night and which serves an excellent dinner to all, is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Agnes Kalfaian, who oversees the kitchen and the activities. It has become quite a popular evening and starting on Friday, November 14, there will be tavloo tournaments sponsored by the Constantinople Armenian Relief Society.

Young hobgoblins pose with their mothers.

Some of the little ones take a rest on the stage.

Mrs. Agnes Kalfaian gives the children Halloween surprises.

Party guests show of their costumes and their presents.

Photos By MADO HAIRABEDIAN