For 60 years the Armenian General Benevolent Union has given—with dedication and warmth of spirit—physical and intellectual comfort to a people who had tasted the ashes of the ultimate tragedy; has nourished its flickering hope; and struggled to sustain the imperiled values of its ancient heritage—all this through vital health programs, the distribution of the necessities of life, the construction and operation of schools, the provision of scholarships, camps and a variety of social and community services, publications and other cultural and educational undertakings—all this with the tenacious support of thousands upon thousands of members, generation after generation. The AGBU needs more such members, for the greater tasks and growing responsibilities that confront it today. And you can serve the organization best by enrolling new members on this remarkable occasion—and in the process perhaps gain a prize as a token of the AGBU's appreciation.

Rules

1. Sixtieth anniversary enrollment cards must be filled out, clearly and completely, for every new member signed. These cards, together with dues and initiation payments made by new members, should be turned over to chapter executives who will in turn submit them to the Central or District offices. No new membership will be considered valid unless it is accompanied by dues and initiation payments.
2. No new members paying less than the minimum dues of $5.00 and the minimum initiation of $1.00 will be credited in the contest.
3. All AGBU members are eligible to participate in the contest, with the exception of Central Committee and District Committee members and their office personnel.
4. The Central Committee shall supervise the contest and be finally responsible for all decisions. In case of ties, the winner will be selected by a method determined by the Central Committee, with the other receiving the next lower prize.
5. The contest ends on May 31, 1966. All new member applications must reach the Central office, or be postmarked no later than that date.
